Aims and scopes: Since its foundation in 1924 Anthropologischer Anzeiger has developed into a modern peer-reviewed journal publishing original English language manuscripts in the field of Biological and Clinical Anthropology. Anthropologischer Anzeiger also publishes reviews, case reports and technical notes / short reports.

Fast publication supports the distribution of new results in anthropology and human biology.

Anthropologischer Anzeiger particularly encourages publishing manuscripts on:

Growth and development: Studies on pre- and postnatal growth, with particular interest in aspects of health prevention, and psycho-social, socio-economic, and environmental factors influencing child and adolescent growth and maturation.

Population genetics: the geographical distribution of serological and biochemical markers and morphological and physiological traits.

Hominid evolution, paleoanthropology and historical and forensic anthropology: Studies on aDNA, osteology, demography, morphology, biomechanics, isotopes, paleopathology, archaeology and anatomy.

Human ethology

New methods in anthropology: Description and application of new or improved methods in the study of physical and biochemical anthropology, sports and industrial anthropology.

Submission of manuscripts

Manuscript Management System MMS

Please submit manuscripts intended for publication in Anthropologischer Anzeiger via the electronic Manuscript Management System (MMS), which can be accessed at or via the publishers website www.schweizerbart.de. This easy to use system allows full transparency for the entire submission process. First time users please register as author and start the 5 step submission process to submit your valuable results for review and publication in Anthropologischer Anzeiger.

<https://www.schweizerbart.de/submit/anhranz/>

Submission of a manuscript for publication in Anthropologischer Anzeiger is considered binding assurance that this work has not been and will not be published elsewhere in this form and length.

Manuscript structure: The manuscripts must be prepared by a word processor (if possible Word for Windows). Block letters, hard returns and hyphenation at the end of a line must be avoided. Text should be single line spaced. Bold-face for titles and headings. Systematic names of genus and species have to be italicised, not families and higher categories.

Please structure the manuscript in the following way:

Title page contains:

Title

Names of the author/s and the institute where the researches were made, the full address of the author/s, e-mail address, number of illustrations and tables, summary, key words.

At the end of the manuscript the literature references have to be added.

The manuscript must be marked up according to the rules of Anthropologischer Anzeiger. Bold-face for titles and headings. Systematic names of genus and species have to be italicised, not families and higher categories.

Figures: All figures have to be numbered consecutively. They should be placed at the end of the word file on separate pages, respectively, or may be alternatively added as separate files. All details of the figures must be clearly readable when reduced to the printing area of Anthropologischer Anzeiger. It has to be marked up in the manuscript where figures have to be placed. Resolution of figure files: Figures must have at least 600 dpi when producing line drawings, photographs a minimum of 300 dpi. Please embed the fonts. Formats: Accepted formats are tif, eps and jpg (jpg only for photos). Colour printing of figures: If authors pay page charges, printing of colour sheets is possible. After receiving the manuscript, the publishers will inform the authors about the amount. Figure captions: A detailed and complete caption of each figure has to be added at the end of the manuscript.

Tables: Tables have to be numbered consecutively and should be placed on separate pages with their headings at the end of the manuscript. Please mark up where tables have to be placed. For measurements and weight indications please use metric units only.

Literature references have to be restricted to the publications referred to in the text. For the abbreviations of journal titles the abbreviations of BIOSIS "http://csssivr.entnem.ufl.edu/~pmc/journals/all_journals.htm" should be used. Journals not being cited there should be mentioned abbreviated or unabbreviated according to other suitable references. Examples for literature references:

Henke, W. (2003): Evaluating human fossil finds. – In: Grupe, G. & Joris, P. (eds): Decyphering Ancient Bones. The Research Potential of Bioarchaeological Collections. – Verlag Marie Leidorf, Rhaden/Westf., pp. 59–76.

Schilz, F., Hummel, S. & Hermann, B. (2004): Design of a multiplex PCR for genotyping 16 short tandem repeats in degraded DNA samples. – Anthrop. Anz. 62, 369–378.

Walter, H. (1998): Populationsgenetik der Blutgruppensysteme des Menschen. – Schweizerbart, Stuttgart.

Proof reading: The authors (the first-named author for multi-author-papers) will receive by e-mail a pdf-file of the proof. This proof has to be checked immediately and the corrections have to be returned either by e-mail or fax to the publishers. In cases where the author is prevented from making corrections, he should appoint a representative to check the proofs. If the corrections are not returned in time, the paper will be published uncorrected. Only typesetting errors or small technical changes can be made, for further corrections the authors will be charged.

Reprints: Authors will receive 50 reprints or alternatively a pdf-file, for personal use only, free of charge, additional reprints can be ordered at cost.

Copyright: With acceptance and publication of a manuscript the exclusive copyright for every language and country is transferred to the publishers. The copyright covers both the exclusive rights to reproduce and distribute the article including reprints, microfilm or any other reproduction and the right to distribute as electronic file and to save in data processing systems.

The manuscript must correspond to high scientific standards which are clearly quoted at form No. 67.60 (see <http://www.dfg.de>) The author/s is/are asked to expressly confirm that her/his/their contribution was written according to these rules.

Declaration: Studies published in the Anthropologischer Anzeiger must be performed according to the formal statement on proper treatments of human subjects:

Any submitted paper has to follow the safeguarding principles of Good Scientific Practice. Research involving Human and Animal Subjects must have been approved by the author's institutional review board. Authors must include in the Methods section a brief statement identifying the institutional and/or licensing committee approving the experiments. For experiments involving human subjects, authors must also include a statement confirming that informed consent was obtained from all subjects. All experiments involving human subjects must have been conducted according to the principles expressed in the Declaration of Helsinki.
